

The Master Builder

This book offers pastors and church leaders both inspirational and instructive insights into those key foundational subject areas necessary for establishing a local church with an effective world vision and outreach. It consists of a progressive series of messages which provide a concise yet comprehensive apostolic foundation for church leadership desiring both local growth and extra local church expansion. The principles contained within this book have been proven successful in the lives and ministries of the authors. While having ministries which are separate and distinct, these men enjoy a common bond of friendship and vision that has united them together in the mutual effort of building up the Body of Christ.

Dick Benjamin is the founder of Abbott Loop Christian Center in Anchorage, Alaska. He began his pastoral work over 25 years ago. As the work grew, he embraced the apostolic vision of raising up and sending forth ministry teams to other areas. Since that time many churches have been established across the United States.

Jim Durkin is the founder and leader of Gospel Outreach, based in Eureka, California. Beginning in 1970 as a small church and a Christian ranch, this ministry has grown and established many outreach ministries throughout the United States, as well as in Europe and Central America.

Dick Iverson is the pastor of Bible Temple in Portland, Oregon, which began with thirteen people in 1951, and today has grown to become one of the most respected churches in the Northwest. Over the years, Bible Temple has trained and sent forth many pastors, establishing strong local churches in many other areas.

Also introducing . . . Terry Edwards, the President of Christian Equippers International and Pastor of Church of Glad Tidings in South Lake Tahoe, California who helped coordinate and compile the materials of the above authors and also contributed the chapter entitled "The Church as a Training Center".
